Silistix Leads Participation in Power Domain Management Panel, Presents Network-on-Chip Innovations at MultiCore Expo 2009 in Santa Clara

What: Silistix Inc. Senior Architect, Robert Adair, will take part in a panel entitled "Clock & Power Domain Control/Management Challenges in a Multicore World: The Interconnect Dilemma" at the MultiCore Expo Conference in the Santa Clara Convention Center. Silistix proposed the topic and authored the abstract for the panel that will be moderated by industry veteran Ron Wilson, Executive Director, EDN Magazine. Joining Mr. Adair on the panel will be industry experts from MIPS, Synopsys, and Sonics.

Additionally, Silistix Director of Product Marketing, David Stratman, will present a talk entitled "Managing SoC Complexity Using 'True' Globally Asynchronous, Locally Synchronous Interconnect Technologies" outlining Network-on-Chip (NoC) innovations recently made available in CHAIN[®]works 3.0.

Silistix staff will be available throughout the conference at booth #30 to answer questions about both the panel and presentation or demo their award winning CHAIN[®]works family of Network-on-Chip silicon IP and tools. Abstracts available on both Silistix and MultiCore websites.

When: March 18th 2009 (Wednesday)
Presentation: 2:20 PM PST
Panel: 4:20 PM PST

Where: MultiCore Expo 2009
Santa Clara Convention Center
5001 Great America Parkway, Santa Clara, CA

About Silistix

Silistix, Inc. is a leading Silicon Intellectual Property (SIP) vendor, delivering predictable Network-on-Chip (NoC) solutions for managing chip complexity. Silistix CHAIN[®]works family of tools and IP libraries address timing closure, power management, and deep-sub-micron process variability while cutting chip design time and effort. Silistix is privately held and is backed by a number of venture firms and corporate investors, including Intel Capital. The company has offices in Manchester, England; San Jose, California; and Tokyo, Japan. For more information, visit www.silistix.com.
